

Hyland's 25th Annual Lobsterfest Raises Funds for UCM

Mount Vernon Supervisor Garry Hyland had to postpone his 25th annual Lobsterfest on the grounds of the Justice Snowden Farm on Parkers Lane from Oct. 3 to Oct. 10 due to bad weather. This year, Hyland who is not seeking reelection dedicated proceeds from this year's event to United Community Ministries. Above, Hyland with his younger sister Chris Taylor. Right, cooks kept the lobsters coming.

Left, Hyland received a Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department sweat shirt from Chief Richard Bowers and John Niemiec, president of the Fairfax County Professional Fire Fighters and Paramedics -- International Association of Fire Fighters Local 2088. Above left, Suzy Coffey, president of the Friends of UCM, left, with UCM executive director Nichelle Mitchem. Above right, former Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Kate Hanley.

Staff photos/Steve Hunt

Former Mount Vernon Estate manager of protocol Sue Keeler, left, with Mount Vernon Citizens Associations co-chair Katherine Ward.

Past UCM presidents Joe Canny, right, and Marie Canny, second from left, with Virginia Martin and UCM board member David Barbour.

UCM Board President Gigi Hyland makes sure her father's clam chowder doesn't stick to the pot.